

CLASS OF 2022

Dawson Aichholz

Cincinnati, Ohio
Johns Hopkins University - International Studies
Internship: The Market Place

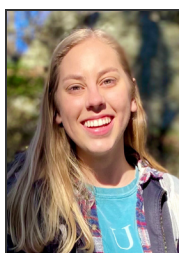

I was drawn to Fellows by a desire to receive more formal Biblical education and a desire to learn more about being highly involved in a faithful fellowship, as well as discerning what the Lord has for me vocationally. I am interested in serving others, especially the marginalized.

Lydia Grace Boswell

Bon Air, Virginia
University of Virginia - Economics
Internship: HSP Direct

I'm passionate about financial education and encouraging financial literacy in women and minority groups. I'm excited about taking seminary classes and transitioning from college into the Church community. My hope is for a year filled with growth in the Lord.

Emily Costea

Somerset, Pennsylvania
University of Pittsburgh - Rehabilitation Science
Internship: Jill's House

As an EMT and medical assistant, I hope to attend PA school. I am excited to grow with other Christians, learning what it looks like to live in faith in all aspects of life. Some of my favorite things include kayaking, baking, sports, bubble tea, hammocks, and sunsets.

Orlane Destin

Milton, Massachusetts
Gordon College - Christian Studies/Social Impacts
Internship: Project Belong

I am passionate about justice. I worked as a gov't & public policy intern, formed a youth leadership council, served in Europe and S. America, and participated in research. As the President of the Black Student union, I sought diversity in our college curriculum. I am planning to attend law school.

About Capital Fellows

Capital Fellows is a leadership and professional development program for recent college graduates hosted by the Capital Pres Family. Through paid internships in the marketplace, graduate courses, personal mentoring, and service opportunities, fellows learn to use their strengths and abilities for the benefit of others while learning to glorify Christ in all areas of life. It is a unique and challenging opportunity to explore servant-leadership in the workplace, home, church, and society.

Seth Gladysz

Kelowna, British Columbia, Canada
Biola University - Political Science
Internship: Capital Pres Family - Children's Ministry Team

I'm excited to be at MPC and in Children's Ministry this year. Last year, my internship helped me to realize a call to ministry. While in college, I was involved with student government, studied abroad at Cambridge University, and explored much of the American West.

Samuel Littauer

Hendersonville, North Carolina
Appalachian State University - Business Management
Internship: Center for Public Justice

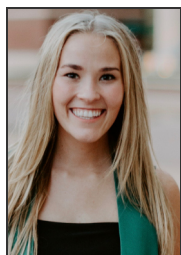

I am excited to join Capital Fellows this year! I have vocational interests in non-profits, mutual aid networks, and community development. I enjoy running, hiking, being with friends, cheering on App State football, baking, and eating ice cream. I look forward to serving y'all this year!

Emy Luong

Niceville, Florida
University of Florida - Marketing
Internship: Targeted Victory

I was drawn to Fellows because it offers a work, church, and community balance that I want to have in post-grad life. I look forward to laying a foundation for lasting relationships. I love making playlists on Spotify, watching movie marathons, and eating at delicious restaurants.

Kate Moffatt

Waco, Texas
Baylor University - Environmental Studies
Internship: Sen. Inhofe's Office

I grew up in a Christ-centered home with 3 older brothers. I found my love of God's creation by traveling, hiking, and snowboarding with my family. I am excited for the fellows program and look forward to learning how to use my career, passion, and skills to share the gospel and glorify God.

Jack Neary

Richmond, Virginia
University of Virginia - Public Policy & Leadership
Internship: Prison Fellowship

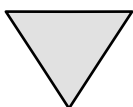

This year I hope to clarify my calling and develop skills for a career. I look forward to a year of good community, reflection, and learning about God and myself. I love TV and movies, hiking, running, reading, ice cream, and driving on country roads with the windows down.

Lainey Nix

Kinston, North Carolina
University of North Carolina - Public Policy
Internship: Rep. Rice's Office + The Fellows Initiative

I'm looking forward to my internship and am excited to explore health policy. I was drawn to Fellows for the strong connection to living out faith in all areas of life and for the growth opportunities. I love hikes, beach reads, swimming laps - and UNC basketball!

Camille Roth

Blowing Rock, North Carolina
Appalachian State University - English Literature Studies
Internship: Cornerstone School

I plan to attend law school next fall and then a career in law. I love walking, reading, staying active, and going out to eat! I am excited about moving back to the D.C. area (I grew up in Annapolis) and can't wait to see what the next 9 months hold!

David Seaton

Arlington, Virginia
Covenant College - Economics
Internship: Capital Pres Family - Missions Team

We moved to the D.C. area in '08 to plant Emmanuel Pres, a daughter church of MPC. I feel called to the Coast Guard, and hope to complete Officer Candidate School. I'm excited that Fellows will help me build Christ-centered frameworks for the next chapter of life.

Will Solomon

Dadeville, Alabama
Auburn University - Accounting
Internship: Cornerstone School

I enjoy learning about being a disciple of Jesus, and I want to teach it one day. I am looking forward to spending time with the fellows and my host family. I hope to be challenged to grow this year, develop lasting relationships, and help impact lives at Cornerstone.

Brooke Sorenson

Evergreen, Colorado
Grove City College - English
Internship: Pinkston Group

I majored in English and played volleyball in college, so I love hearing good book recommendations or doing anything sporty! I was drawn to Fellows by the vision of learning and serving alongside the community at MPC. I'm grateful for this good gift from the Lord!

Annie Talton

Selma, Alabama
Washington & Lee University - Religion & Sociology
Internship: For The Nations

In college, I was involved with RUF, peer counseling and dance. I'm passionate about Christ's ministry of reconciliation and hope to make this part of my career through law school or other grad school. I'm excited about the fellows community and life rooted in the Gospel.

Madison Urban

Matthews, North Carolina
University of North Carolina - Public Policy
Internship: Valens Global

I chose Fellows because I want to prioritize intentional community in the next stage of life. Vocationally, I am interested in national security and foreign policy. I've been a swim coach for six years and love getting to work with kids! I am a proud Philly sports fan!

Praying for the Capital Fellows

Please keep this prayer guide on your phone as a handy reference. Please pray that God would give the fellows clarity of his calling, abundant grace for one another, and a clear servant leadership.
